Number of Europeans - The English - The Army of Occupation - Anglo Egyptian officials - Feeling entertained by other Europeans towards the English - Summary of the classes friendly and hostile to England.

ACCORDING to the census of 1897, there were at that time about 113,000 Europeans resident in Egypt. These 113,000 persons were divided as follows:

Greeks . . . . .	38,000
Italians . . . . .	24,000
French . . . . .	14,000
Austrians . . . . .	7,000
As well as the Army of Occupation ).	20,000
Other nationalities . . . . .	10,000
Total . . . . .	113,000

النص الثاني:

This definition is, however, not satisfactory, for some Europeans may be born and bred in the East and pass all their lives in the Levant, without losing the special characteristics of their country of origin, or acquiring in any considerable degree those of the Levantine.

النص الثالث:

In the case of others, a short residence in the Levant suffices to produce typical Levantine characteristics. Others, again, assimilate so nearly to Levantines in their country of origin, which they may almost be said to have been Levantines before they immigrated to the Levant.
